Team Ramola and Basil surprised the audience to go back to their olden days by singing –“Those were the days my friend, we thought they'd never end....”Basil with his guitar and Ramona with her melodious voice, made a perfect team, and on popular demand they then sang- “A kind of hush.”

All then dispersed for a coffee and steaming snacks prepared by Mr. Vicky and his team.

After the short break, all enjoyed beatific performance by Ghungroo about history of Delhi, which enthralled the audience for an hour. It was truly once in a lifetime program!

Struggles are everywhere, but don't juggle with Struggle

(By AnjanaTandon)

We are humans and we want many things in life. We have dreams and we want to fulfill all of them. When any of our dreams do not get fulfilled we start struggling to fulfill them, and sometimes start living with depression, and furthermore, this affects our health.

We should find solutions to overcome these situations. Our elders would always say "we cannot always get what we want; we should learn that, the result can be either this way or that way". And, I always thought, there should be some solution to handle this situation.

One day during my computer course classes, I was taught about the 'IF' statement, which is used in programming to decide whether the 'if' condition is not fulfilled, and, if it is not fulfilled then what needs to be done and if the 'if' condition is fulfilled; then we've still got to look for what needs to be done. In both the conditions, we have a solution with ourselves. That's day I got the solution I needed based on the corresponding nature of the situation to handle day to day struggles.

I started implementing this whenever I had to take a decision on any issue. I started keeping two solutions, always. One, if the result wasn't in favor and the other if the result was in favor. This way I've learnt to be calm and patient in any situation in life and I'm still implementing it.

So I want to repeat myself, "Struggles are everywhere, don't juggle with struggle, always find a solution".

Thanks
